

TRAINING INFORMATION

All trainings will take place on Saturdays from 10am to 4pm and on Sundays from 12 to 4pm. Training location will be given to applicants that are invited to participate.

October 16 & 17

Part 1: Introduction to Dr. King's Principles and Steps of Nonviolence

By learning Martin Luther King Jr.'s six principles and six steps of nonviolence, participants will come to a greater understanding of nonviolence as a tool for change. Participants will gain the skills and support to help them learn how to solve conflicts without using violence and be challenged to think critically about the practice of nonviolence in today's world.

October 30 & 31

Part 2: Teaching Nonviolence to Children and Youth

This second part of the training focuses on teaching nonviolence in school-based and recreational after-school settings. Participants will learn age-appropriate curriculum and activities to children and youth. Additionally, participants will gain important tools and teaching strategies including classroom management, nonviolent conflict resolution, lesson planning and public speaking.

November 13 & 14

Part 3: Nonviolent Direct Action for Campus and Community

This last weekend is geared toward campus and community builders. Participants will learn the intersections of nonviolence and social justice. In addition, participants will gain strategies to lead and mobilize nonviolent direct action and acts of civil disobedience.

FEE & SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION

The cost to attend all three weekend sessions is $250/person. All participants will receive a free t-shirt. College and university students, especially, are encouraged to seek support from their campuses. A limited number of partial scholarship opportunities are available. Please contact Alyssa Metthe, Assistant Director of Training at (401)785-2320 or email alyssa@nonviolenceinstitute.org for more information.

Applications are due no later than Friday, September 24, 2010.

Please include a resume with your application.

Completed applications can be sent to:

Institute for the Study and Practice of Nonviolence
